

Intermission Request

An intermission allows a postgraduate researcher (PGR) to take an authorised break in their registration (sometimes referred to as a temporary withdrawal) for a documented medical or personal reason. Section 7 of the Policy on Research Degrees addresses intermissions.

An intermission will not be considered in a PGR's first month of registration. Otherwise, any PGR can apply for an intermission, however, approval for an intermission is not guaranteed. Intermission may also be subject to the approval of the funder concerned, where relevant.

During a period of intermission, PGRs must take a break from their research. Access to University resources is limited to those needed to prepare for their return.
